

DEMOCRATS MUST RESTORE IDEALS

Speaking to Mississippi Legislature, Judge Parker Points Out Work For Party.

REFERS TO RECENT SCANDALS

Time For Vigorous Action Has Come, Late Presidential Candidate Declares.

(By Associated Press.) JACKSON, Miss., March 13.—Allan B. Parker, of New York, delivered a speech on "Democracy" before a joint session of the Mississippi Legislature at the Century Theatre today. He was introduced by Chief Justice Whitfield, of the Supreme Court. An audience of about 1,000 persons were assembled.

Mr. Parker discussed the fundamental principles of government at some length and then devoted a considerable portion of his time to the recent insurance and other scandals. Continuing, he said in part:

While, however, we are only reaping as we have sown, it behooves us to be up and doing. The effect upon the world of these revelations must be as deep and profound as our own trial has been serious, our shame open, barefaced, impossible to be hid. For a time, the ideals of our three centuries of life have been shattered, and our people feel that they have come far short of their early promise. But why should the knowledge that a few thieves in high places have been uncovered dishearten us? Suppose their operations had gone on for another decade, should we have been better or happier to have realized, at its end, that we had been living all those years over an ever-increasing, ever-deepening, sewer of ever-increasing filthiness?

Must Retrace Steps. All these things are had—certainly nothing worse has happened to light in any country within a century; but it is not too late to retrace our steps, to assert anew, and with added effectiveness, the strong points of our national character, and to appeal to the inherent good, the almost unerring impulse, to do right. There is no, perhaps, fewer thieves now in proportion to population, than those who preyed upon our society fifty years ago, and, though more dangerous, because found in high places, we must confess that, on the other hand, it is easier than ever before to find, expose and punish them.

Indeed, we must bear in mind that many of the revelations are not revelations at all. A half-dozen great offenders in the insurance companies have been suspected of every man in the same business, a result not at all justified, because, for the most part, the men engaged in it, as in all other callings, are honest and high-minded. If some railroad officials have been caught in the act of giving rebates, or are guilty of other offenses against the law, there has probably never been a business of such magnitude, in which more men, honest as well as efficient, have been engaged. And so it is all along the line of our industrial life.

Work For Democrats to Do.

As Democrats we have much work to do of a serious kind. We have only the smallest responsibility for the fundamental evils which have put into peril the great moral heritage of our people. We have never bought or sold options in the market of privilege or monopoly. We cannot gain or regain power by subterfuges, and we ought not to do so. If we have no principles fixed immutably upon ideas, and genuine attachments to the public interests, we shall then be without hope. If we cannot see the light of a moral issue, may be made on the side of both policy and righteousness, then we may as well abandon the field, and let either the corrupt and the monopolist, or the radical, the destructive and the anarchist, have our country. Our history, our traditions, our very necessities, have always represented the antithesis of these, and we may feel sure that, if we but do our duty, a better fate than this is in store for us.

ASKS FOR DIVORCE.

Miss Egerton Declares She Supported Husband Until Deserted.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, Va., March 13.—Miss Susan Yeatman Egerton, formerly prominent in the city's society and lately residing in Washington, D. C., today entered suit in the Court of Law and Chancery for an absolute divorce from her husband, John F. Egerton, whom she alleges deserted her, after she had formerly moved to Manila, Philippine Islands, where he is now living. Miss Susan Yeatman and John F. Egerton were married at St. Luke's Episcopal Church November 17, 1937. The wedding was brilliant with several hundred Norfolk guests. The bride was Miss Susan Yeatman, daughter of Rev. Dr. Arthur S. Lloyd, now of New York, was the celebrant. There was a wedding tour and the Egertons later took a cottage at Virginia Beach.

Mrs. Egerton in her bill of complaint filed in court today, declares that from the date of their wedding her husband failed to support her, but she was compelled to support him until he deserted her and left the country. Mrs. Egerton says that she secured a position as a stenographer at the Virginia Hotel, and reported the desertion until he left her in September, 1932.

TUCKER IN NORFOLK.

Jamestown Officials Have High Hopes of Congress.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, Va., March 13.—President Harry S. George Tucker, of the Jamestown Exposition Company, arrived in the city this morning from Washington, where he has been at work in the interest of a liberal congressional appropriation for the exposition company and for the government display.

Mr. Tucker spent the morning in conference with Chairman C. Brooks Johnson, of the Board of Governors, and other officials of the company. He will return to Washington tomorrow night.

The outlook in Washington for congressional aid for the exposition is good, and while no statements are made by the exposition officials expect $750,000 or $1,000,000.

FOR HOME ENTERPRISE.

Raleigh Merchants Order Bell Phones Out of Their Stores.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) RALEIGH, N. C., March 13.—Raleigh merchants' association at a rather stormy session last night voted to "cut out" the Interstate and Bell Telephone in their places of business and urge their patrons to do the same and patronize only the Raleigh system, the home company.

Swans Liniment For Tonsillitis

Price 25¢ 50¢ & 1.00

The Raleigh representative to them that the would enlarge and improve their exchange and furnish service at $30 for business houses and $15 for residence. The Bell people say they have no idea of giving up the idea. The resolution by the Merchants' Association provided that notice should be given the Bell and Interstate to remove their telephones from the places of business of members of the association by a certain date. The Bell people have the advantage of the long distance connections and superior exchange equipment and declare that they are not at all apprehensive over the probable outcome of the fight.

The fourth annual commencement of the Medical Department of the University of North Carolina May 11th, twelve young men will receive diplomas. Dr. R. L. Payne, of Norfolk, Va., will deliver the address.

SEEKS AID OF THE STATE COMMISSION

Interstate Commerce Commission Invokes Co-operation and Assistance.

Not long ago the State Corporation Commission forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission allegations of discriminations on the part of certain carriers carrying railroads in Virginia as to rates.

The following self-explanatory reply has been received:

Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, March 9, 1936. The Honorable, The State Corporation Commission of Virginia, Richmond, Va.

Gentlemen:—Your communication of February 12th, alleging upon information an unlawful combination by certain railroad carriers operating in your State and asking this commission to investigate the same, was duly received and should perhaps have been sooner acknowledged.

About that time a joint resolution was pending before the Congress which has since been adopted and on the 7th instant was approved by the President. This resolution directs an inquiry by the commission which plainly includes the subject of your complaint, and will be the basis of an investigation which is intended to develop all the material facts and disclose the railway relations which you have requested us to make the subject of official inquiry. The commission has already made an order of inquiry under this joint resolution, and in the exercise of its authority under the act to regulate commerce, a copy of this order will be transmitted to you at an early date.

In view of the inquiry thus instituted, in which the general and special direction of the Congress and the purpose of the commission to embrace in the inquiry the matters to which your complaint refers, it seems unnecessary, if not unsuitable, to conduct a separate proceeding relating to the situation set forth in your complaint, and we shall assume that this will be satisfactory to you unless we are advised to the contrary. We can understand your desire to have the matter presented thoroughly investigated, but it does not occur to us that you are concerned as to the form of the inquiry or as to the time of its presentation, and we shall assume that you desire a separate proceeding.

We shall be greatly obliged, however, if you can in any way assist the commission in the conduct of the inquiry imposed by this joint resolution, and shall be glad to have you take an active part in the investigation, especially as such matters set forth in your complaint.

Very respectfully yours,
(Signed) MARTIN A. KNAPP, Chairman.

CHESTNUT HILL AND HIGHLAND PARK

Miss Lillie Gray, who has been visiting her friend, Miss Claire Schaffer, of Third Avenue, has returned to her home in Henrico county.

The Covingtons' Society of Misses Presbyterians held its regular monthly meeting last Sunday evening, March 11th, in the lecture-room of the church.

Miss Lillie Gray, who for the past week has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. William Redd, has returned home.

The Marguerite Bottoms Circle of the King's Daughters met last Monday evening, March 12th, at the residence of Mrs. Charles Wingfield, of Highland Park.

Mrs. Bahlke and her little son, George, who have been visiting friends in Baltimore, Md., have returned to their home on Chestnut Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Overby, who have been visiting in Virginia Avenue, Barton Heights, have returned to their home on Chestnut Hill.

Mr. Tiller and family, who have been living on Chestnut Hill, have moved to their new home on Third Avenue, Chestnut Hill.

Miss M. J. Watkins, who has been visiting her friend, Miss Emma Justice, near Dry Bridge, Powhatan county, has returned to her home on Chestnut Hill.

There will be a "Silver Tea" at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Watkins, of Chestnut Hill, on Friday evening, March 15th, from 8 to 11 P. M. Proceeds for Misses' Presbyterian Church, 1111 Harrison, of Chestnut Hill.

The Guild of the Ascension Chapel, of Highland Park, met last Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Watkins, of Chestnut Hill.

Miss Jessie Warriner, who has been the guest of relatives on Highland Park for several days, has returned to her home in Amelia county.

Miss Viola Clemon is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Fleming, of Fourth Avenue.

Instead of the regular Wednesday evening service usually held at the church, the Philippines will conduct the service on Thursday evening, March 14th, at 8 P. M.

Miss Carson, of Cumberland, has been visiting her sister, Miss Rosalie Carson, of Second Avenue.

Mr. William Todd, of Highland Park, has bought the house recently occupied by Mr. Meacham, of Chestnut Hill.

Miss Katherine Warriner, of Teterville, has been visiting Mrs. C. W. Vaughan, of Highland Park.

MR. DOWNING CHOSEN.

Made Chairman of District Committee; Primary Date Fixed.

The Democratic Congressional Committee for the First District met here yesterday afternoon at 2 P. M. in the parlors of the Hotel Raleigh, and elected Mr. Downing, of Lancaster, to be chairman of their organization.

After this organizing the committee fixed Saturday, June 10th, as the date for holding the primary to name a candidate for the U. S. Congress.

Saturday, April 14th, was fixed as the date upon the time in which candidates may appear for the primary.

The chairman of their organization, following resolution was also adopted.

Resolved, That the sum of $300 be assessed against each candidate, which shall be paid at the time of filing notice of candidacy.

NEW IDEAS IN POLITICS

By HON. EVERETT COLBY, State Senator of New Jersey

Senator Colby distinguished himself at the election last November, as did District Attorney Jerome, of New York, by his bold, courageous and successful campaign against the rule of the few in New Jersey. He is regarded as one of the coming men in American politics.

For the past few months we have been celebrating the advent of a new idea in politics—the idea of individual initiative on the part of a candidate for office, as opposed to the dictation of nominations by one-man power, and now the question naturally arises, how can we make this reform permanent and of real lasting value?

It is a question that will cost much thought and consistent effort. It will require some real solid patriotism, as opposed to emotional patriotism, of which we have a plethora. It will require a different analysis of fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and the precise determination of just what we are after; and, as a matter of fact, what we are all trying to accomplish. If we look carefully into the present political situation, do we not see an attempt on the part of different political factions to solve the one great problem of our generation, namely: How to distribute equally and fairly the joint annual product of capital and labor. Are not the tariff, free coinage of silver, socialism, the Henry George plan, and other fundamental principles, and